

Five Crucial Questions You Must Ask Yourself
Before Launching Your Dream
A Special Report from Elizabeth A. Grant, The Quantum Coach™

<http://www.thequantumcoach.net>

We all have a dream. It's that thing that won't go away. It's the thing that if we don't do it before we die, we won't be able to stand it - to the point we don't even want to think about what it would be like to look back with those kinds of regrets.

This isn't a dress rehearsal. You don't get to wake up one day and do it all over, right? While living your dream will be effortless in many ways (life does not offer you a struggle when your spiritual and your personal wills are aligned), it may also bring up feelings of fear, and you will have to overcome whatever has prevented you from getting started up until now.

I've come up with five questions that are crucial for you to contemplate before you launch your dream. Are you ready?

Crucial Question #1: What one thing do I know I will regret if I don't at least try to do it before I die?

Today's date: _____

Crucial Question #2: Why haven't I done it yet?

Crucial Question #3: Why is it so important to me?

Crucial Question #4: What are the obstacles I think I will face in living my dream?

Crucial Question #5: What needs to change starting right now for me to get where I want to go?

Now, commit to doing what it takes!
For more information about Elizabeth Grant's Dreaming Big program, visit <http://www.yourquantumsuccesscoach.com>.
(This link active as of 01/01/2010) If today's date is before that, visit <http://www.thequantumcoach.net>
NOTES: